

Lessons From The Wisdom of Geese

Act like geese and hold up each other. Working like a team we can use our talents and skills to arrive strong at our big goal destination.

Geese take flight from Canadian waters and quickly form a v-shape flying pattern. One rotating goose in the center leads, and all other geese trail behind in two close lines. When the lead goose tires, another takes its place. Many teamwork lessons are incorporated into this educational video with its beautiful images of the wisdom of geese in flight.

Motivational Discussion Questions (Select One)

- Geese honk at each other to cheer and support the goose in the lead. How can we improve the way we cheer and support each other on?
- If one goose falls from the formation, two others will fly to its aid. What situations do we have where we don't go to each other's aid as much as we should? What can we do better?
